The 2018 Sarjeant Gallery Te Whare o Rehua Whanganui Arts Review Exhibition opens on Saturday, 10 March.

Thank you

The Council’s Community Development Advisor, Katy Newton, wants to thank everyone who participated in the Welcoming Communities Survey.

“We had an amazing response. The information will help us develop the Whanganui Welcoming Plan, due in mid-2018.”

Arts Review

Clocking up 30 years this year, the Whanganui Arts Review is the longest running in the country. The exhibition of 117 works, all created in the last 12 months by Whanganui regional artists, closes on Sunday, 13 May.

Beach clean-up this weekend

Let’s keep our beaches beautiful!

That’s the message from the Council’s Youth Committee, which is celebrating New Zealand Seaweeek by holding a Castlecliff Beach clean-up on Saturday, 10 March.

Youth Committee chair Rhea Colaabavala would love to see as many people as possible join the youth councillors at 1.00pm at the Duncan Pavilion.

“At the 1.00pm briefing we will hand out bags and gloves. We will walk down to the North Mole and back again, picking up rubbish as we go. There are other activities after the clean-up, so grab your friends and come help clean up our beach.”

Proceeds from a gold coin sausage sizzle will go to the Sir Peter Blake Trust.

A survey form will also be handed out, including questions about activities for young people in Whanganui.
