Castlecliff water update

Drinking water network cleaning has begun

We have now begun removing sand and sediment from Castlecliff's drinking water network using specialist NO-DES filtration equipment. We'll share daily updates about where NO-DES is working via our website, Facebook page and Antenna.

The water is safe to drink and will keep flowing while we work through six areas in stages.

The network may seem more settled recently, but the sand still needs to be removed. You may notice some temporary sediment or discolouration. We're managing the work carefully to minimise the impact on households.
